

Obtaining National Code Council Certifications based on the 2007 CALIFORNIA Codes

Because of the test development process utilized to develop the California exams, the Code Council Board for International Professional Standards (BIPS) has determined that all of the California-specific certifications are substantially equivalent to corresponding Code Council certifications. Those holding a California certificate listed below may apply for the Code Council equivalent certification when renewing their certifications. No application is included in this Bulletin for the certifications shown below. Please see renewal information and application on the website at www.iccsafe.org/certification/renewal.
