ICC Accepting Applications for New ICC Standard on Log Structures

The International Code Council® (ICC®) is seeking qualified individuals in all Interest Categories to serve on the ICC Consensus Committees (CC) for the ICC Standard on Design, Construction and Performance of Log Structures. The Interest Categories are outlined on the application form.

The ICC Standard on Design, Construction and Performance of Log Structures will provide technical design and performance criteria that will facilitate and promote the design, construction, and installation of safe and reliable structures constructed of log timbers. This standard is being developed in a joint effort of ICC, the National Association of Home Builders' Log Home Council (NAHB), and the International Log Builders' Association. It is intended that this Standard be used by design professionals, manufacturers, and constructors, and building and other government officials, and for reference in building codes. Currently there is no specific ANSI standard that fully addresses log structure construction. There are a growing number of these types of structures being built in all geographic areas. This includes the typical "log home", and the commercial buildings such as those located in national and state parks.

Persons interested in being appointed to an ICC Consensus Committee must submit a completed "APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP" form to ICC. Application forms can be downloaded from the ICC web site at: <http://www.intlcode.org>, (click on "I-Codes®" on the left-hand side of the screen, then click on the left box at the top of the page) or by calling 703-931-4533, extension #10. Information on the committees can be obtained by calling Larry Brown on extension #15.

Please submit your applications by August 1, 2002.

The ICC was founded in 1994 as a nonprofit organization dedicated to developing a single set of comprehensive and coordinated national model construction codes. The founders of the ICC are Building Officials and Code Administrators International, Inc.® (BOCA®), International Conference of Building Officials® (ICBO®), and Southern Building Code Congress International, Inc.® (SBCCI®). Since the early part of the last century, these nonprofit organizations have developed the three sets of model codes used throughout the United States.
