Early Bird Registration Opens for the International Code Council's 2023 Annual Conference and Expo

This year's event provides opportunities to network with peers and expand professional knowledge through educational sessions

Washington, D.C. – Registration is now open for the International Code Council's Annual Conference and Expo to be held in St. Louis, Missouri, from October 8-11, 2023. The event offers industry-leading educational sessions, networking events, insightful speakers and opportunities to volunteer in the local community.

The conference will provide attendees with the opportunity to expand their knowledge and expertise with events such as building tours and insight sessions where they can earn CEUs. This year's keynote speaker is Tamara Robertson, an accomplished engineer, Emmy-nominated producer and star of the TV show "MythBusters." For more information, visit the schedule of events on the conference website.

"The annual conference advances building safety worldwide by bringing together key stakeholders and Code Council members from across the industry," said Code Council Board of Directors President, Michael P. Wich, CBO. "Our goal is to create an engaging experience that fosters professional connections and unique educational opportunities for building safety professionals."

Participants can take advantage of early bird discounts by registering before Thursday, August 31. Those who register early for the full conference will receive a complimentary conference polo shirt, representing their commitment to excellence in building safety. Register now to get the early bird discount.

Participants can also apply for the Building Safety Leadership Experience, a new opportunity to advance a career in building safety by learning about Code Council Governance via intimate sessions at the conference with stakeholders and industry leaders. The experience includes complimentary registration to the ICC Annual Conference and Expo and reimbursement for associated airfare, ground transportation and lodging costs. The deadline to apply is July 15.

This year's conference sponsors include:
- 4Leaf, Inc.
- American Gas Association
- Archistar
- Clariti

- Cloud Permit
- iPlanTables.com
- Lowe's Services
- PPFA
- SAFEbuilt
- Spatial Data Logic
- Verisk
- Willidan

Sponsorship opportunities are still available; download the 2023 Visibility Prospectus to learn more.

The Expo, which will be held from October 8-9, provides a networking environment where exhibitors can meet face-to-face with building safety professionals and demonstrate the latest innovations -- including Wind River Tiny Homes which will display their Tellico Park model at Booth #705.

Visit iccsafe.org/conference for more information and use the hashtag #ICCAC2023 to join the conversation on social media.

About the International Code Council

The International Code Council is the leading global source of model codes and standards and building safety solutions. Code Council codes, standards and solutions are used to ensure safe, affordable and sustainable communities and buildings worldwide.