New Certification! Commercial Green Construction Professional

The International Code Council (ICC) Assessment Center in collaboration with the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) is pleased to announce the release of a new International Green Construction Code® (IgCC®) exam, The Commercial Green Construction Professional.

A certified Commercial Green Construction Professional will:

- Reinforce societal health/life/safety benefits
- Lead the way on conserving resources, regenerating sites, and providing economic and societal benefits.
- Provide expertise in resilience through natural disasters, climate change, resource consumption/management, and service interruptions due to unforeseen events.

ICC Certification exams are developed and maintained to the highest standards, which includes continuous peer review by national committees of experienced, practicing professionals.

Raise the professionalism of your department and further your career by obtaining an ICC Certification.
