Subject: IECC Public Comment regarding update process

To The ICC Board:

I am writing regarding the proposal to transfer the development of future International Energy Conservation Codes to a standards process. I oppose this change, and urge you to continue determining the final code with a vote that includes the voices of local government officials.

This code is implemented and enforced by local governments. They are the people who have hands-on experience with the code and can best evaluate the impact of proposed changes. These officials can review proposed changes, taking into consideration the impacts on residents in a neutral way. Local governments deserve a voice in the energy code development process. Please continue using the voting process to develop future codes, and allowing local governments to participate.

Thank you for considering my input.
