The Code Council and ICC-ES build prominent presence at Design and Construction Week, largest annual industry gathering

Association showcases commitment to building safety industry as major sponsor at IBS and KBIS

Washington, D.C. – The International Code Council and the ICC Evaluation Service (ICC-ES) are excited to join more than 80,000 residential construction and design professionals from around the world at the 2020 National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) International Builders’ Show (IBS) and the National Kitchen & Bath Association (NKBA) Kitchen & Bath Industry Show (KBIS) during the seventh annual Design and Construction Week (DCW) in Las Vegas, Nevada, from January 21-23, 2020.

The largest annual gathering of the residential construction and design industry, DCW offers two shows in one week with exhibits, education, networking and more during IBS, the largest annual light construction show in the world, and KBIS, North America's largest trade show dedicated to all aspects of kitchen and bath design.

“Returning as a major sponsor and exhibitor for this esteemed industry event is an honor for the Code Council,” said Code Council Chief Executive Officer Dominic Sims, CBO. “Design and Construction Week plays an essential role in the residential design and construction community and offers a great place for industry innovation and collaboration.”

“Design and Construction Week is the industry event, bringing all of housing’s biggest players to one place – there’s nothing else like it,” said NAHB CEO Jerry Howard. “The International Code Council has continued to be a strong supporter of this week, adding its unique and needed perspective.”

The Code Council and ICC-ES are sponsoring several activities during DCW that provide opportunities for participants to network and learn about the latest trends and technologies in the building industry.
