Butalbital is a prescription medication primarily used to treat tension headaches and migraines. Combining Butalbital with other medications like acetaminophen or caffeine enhances its effectiveness in relieving headache symptoms.

How Butalbital Works

Butalbital works by calming nerve activity in the brain, which reduces the intensity and frequency of headaches. Its sedative properties also help alleviate the anxiety or tension that often accompanies migraine episodes. When taken as prescribed, Butalbital can provide fast relief and help patients regain their daily functionality without interruption.
